Station / OX-Ventures

- Section 1

In regards to Station's involvement with the Decentralized Autonomous Organization (DAO) :

-By releasing the intellectual property within Station, we endeavor to breathe life into a cross-chain aggregator for defi derivatives.

-A long-term goal of the Station project has always included planned obsolescence. This is implicitly enacted by the very nature of the DAO, and we believe that this is the correct move to sculpt a platform that is not only operationally successful, but one that surpasses us, the creators, and achieves perfection.

-In order to realize this goal, we believe that an integration with the DAO should begin with an entity of leadership capable of driving the initial stages of development with the focus of meeting agreed-upon benchmarks towards full functionality.

- Section 2: Terms

-Core team members will receive adjacent positions.

-All previous token allocation agreements must be honored.
(none of which are of significant amounts, even still a deal is a deal)

-Some amount of founder tokens for the team should be guaranteed at the onset.

-All members of Station's dev team will receive livable full-time salaries during the development stage. (this can be biweekly, monthly, or checkpoint)

-James Rozelle should be compensated for the equity and intellectual property he is releasing to the DAO. An amount of which will be negotiable and should be paid upon reaching certain development milestones. This way, payment is only made after value has been realized, eliminating any unnecessary risk for the DAO.

-James Rozelle, will have explicit control over all matters developmentally as well as conceptually in regards to the project(with the exception of the treasury and accounting. *covered below) during the development stage to ensure that a focused vision drives the project forward. (with planned obsolescence after platform stability and critical mass community involvement is achieved)

- Section 3: Project Treasury

-No member of the Station team has any interest in possessing control over the project treasury or any project funds. In fact, it is our belief that any cash flow occurring within the project should be solely and strictly managed by the DAO. The members of Station should be given the opportunity to participate in governance of the DAO in an appropriate and equitable manner.
